

TO: ENGLISH 201 STUDENTS
FROM: Dr. Suzanne Webb (Sue)
RE: Welcome & Week 1 Agenda
DATE: Monday, January 7, 2013

Hello & Welcome!

This is your first weekly agenda. Agendas are how I give instruction and assignments—

You can access the weekly agendas every Sunday night this semester online---before the start of each week. New weeks begin each Monday. Each weekly agenda outlines the things you need to do during the coming week. To be successful in this course, READ YOUR AGENDAS EVERY MONDAY!

For this week, there's a lot of reading and getting used to the course web site. Plus, you'll begin your first writing assignment (P1).

- Your course is located at <http://webbsuza.com/1-201-SP13> (←linked here).
You do NOT have to log into ANGEL to get to the site, but it's linked in ANGEL as well. You should bookmark the site. This link is to the course homepage. Click around the site. Get used to the site.
- Read the syllabus, calendar, and contact pages as well as read the announcement's page.

The announcement's page is where I will make course-related announcements. These might be links to resources or clarifications or answers to your emailed questions. Reading the announcement's page (the course home page) is crucial. Also, we will do a lot of work in ANGEL this semester, but not this week. Make sure to read the agendas and attend to the tasks & assignments listed in each of them. Each week. Every week.

If EVER you have any trouble understanding anything in 201 or anything relatedly, EMAIL ME!!! You have to feel like you can ask questions! And, you can! And you should! ☺ ---Never hesitate; it's what I'm here for!

SPECIFIC TASKS FOR WEEK 1:

For this week, get used to the website. Read your syllabus. Check out the calendar. Download and read "Composition in a New Key." Next week, we'll discuss this piece in an ANGEL discussion board. The discussion may help you write your response draft (p1). We will do a peer review of P1 during WEEK 3. The project will be due at the beginning of Week 4.

1. READ: Bean Chapters 1-6
2. READ: COMPOSTION IN A NEW KEY (←linked here). Next week (week 2), we will discuss this piece in ANGEL. Your first writing project (P1) will be a response paper to this reading.

3. READ: Your Syllabus (on the course website)
4. CHECK OUT: your course website: <http://webbsuza.com/1-201-SP13> (←linked here).
5. EMAIL ME: If you have any questions or find any broken links (I am sure there are some), or have any concerns (suzanne.webb@wsu.edu).
6. CHECK THE COURSE HOME PAGE this time next Sunday evening for the WEEK 2 agenda!

Again, Welcome!

--Sue
suzanne.webb@wsu.edu